A MESSAGE FROM OUR CITY MANAGER
LET'S TALK LAKE ELSINORE

Dear Neighbor,

Thank you to all those who have participated in the historic all mail-in ballot election on November 3, 2020 and extra appreciation to the Lake Elsinore voters who participated in our local election – your vote counts!

As you know, Measure Z, Lake Elsinore's local funding measure to address City service, public safety and local recovery needs was on our Municipal Election Ballot and required a simple majority approval. Based on Riverside County's Official Final Election Results by the Registrar of Voters, Measure Z passed with more than 63% of Lake Elsinore voters casting a ballot in support of Measure Z.

We are looking forward to working with the community on the local City service priorities Measure Z could help address such as:

- Providing quick responses to 911 emergencies
- Providing fire protection and paramedic services
- Fixing streets, sidewalks and repairing potholes
- Keeping public areas clean, healthy and free of graffiti
- Reducing gang activity and drug related crimes
- Preparing for public health crises, wildfires, natural disasters and other large-scale emergencies

The City is currently working on establishing a Measure Z Citizen Committee and applications will be available for residents in January 2021. We will continue to work hard on the recovery road ahead and will keep you engaged and informed on Lake Elsinore updates.

In the meantime, don't forget you can follow City news on our website www.lake-elsinore.org, sign up for e-updates and follow us on social media.

Sincerely,

Grant Yates
City Manager/Disaster Director

LEGISLATIVE UPDATE

SWCLC Southwest California Legislative Council

As with most of our lives, this legislative year in Sacramento was dominated by COVID-19. Two extended shut-downs of our legislature resulted in a session foreshortened by nearly 60 days, allowing little time for robust discussion prior to end-of-session. In fact legislators were requested to 1) pull bills that were not deemed priority bills this year, and 2) establish as priority any bill dealing with CV-19.

Almost immediately it seemed every bill was amended to include some component of CV-19 relief, disclosure, regulation, or tax, which winnowed SWCLC priority bills from 91 to just 39 by cross-over. Of greater concern were actions taken on the floor of the legislature where Senate Pro Tem Atkins decided in August that there would be no further committee review of bills, meaning all bills went directly to the Senate floor bypassing the customary committee vetting process.

As a result, this session produced the greatest number of last minute gut-and-amend bills seen in the 15 year record of the SWCLC. These bills, amended with all new language, purpose and even different authors, are legally required to pass committee hearings prior to advancing for a floor vote. Not this year. These bills were fast-tracked without committee analysis, expert review, public due process and questioning. Some were amended on the final day of session, going directly to a floor vote before the ink was dry on the new version. Atkins also made the decision to limit floor discussion to only 2 speakers while banning all but one Republican Senator from being present in Chambers ostensibly due to one member testing positive, leaving nearly 11 million Californians without in-person representation during this critical final process.

It also resulted in a record number of bills not passing due to 'Failed Deadline pursuant to Rule 61', they simply ran out of time. Both houses used this tool effectively to limit each other's bills, which resulted in not only the customary quashing of most Republican authored measures, but brought to the surface some internecine Democratic grievances. This included a signature housing bill authored by the Pro Tem than was delayed in the Assembly until just before the midnight deadline assuring it would not have time to clear the Senate. Take that! This is what passes for leadership during a crisis in California.

During the recently completed second year of our legislature's 2019-2020 session, the Southwest California Legislative Council evaluated well over 100 measures for their potential impact on our local business community, either beneficial or not, and adopted positions on 91. While the Council struggled to be as supportive and bi-partisan as possible, it was a challenge this year. The SWCLC adopted SUPPORT positions on 39 bills while OPPOSING 52. Of those, a scant 11 were among the 900+ finalists making it to the Governor's desk, 4 which we SUPPORTED and 7 we OPPOSED. The rest of the measures died in committee, were amended beyond recognition and dropped from consideration, or failed deadline for passage.

Most compilations, including SWCLC, only consider the final floor vote when determining the vote record. The Council recognizes it is unrealistic to expect our legislators to vote in accord with the Council on every issue. Sometimes their vote reflects the fact that they have other constituencies with equally compelling but opposing arguments on an issue. We are pleased that Senators Melendez and Morrell voted in accord 100% while Assembly Member Waldron differed on a single bill and posted a 90% record. We thank them for their support of our small local business community and will miss Senator Morrell who is termed out this year.

THE LAKE ELSINORE HOUSING JOURNAL

GENE WUNDERLICH FOR THE SOUTHWEST RIVERSIDE COUNTY ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS®

Much of our region across Southwest California is showing strong housing gains amidst the pandemic lockdown. Driven by record low interest rates, a desire to escape crowded cities, and a push for larger homes with offices and classrooms, the Inland housing market will post one of its best sales years this decade while median prices continue to escalate.

Sales of single family homes in Lake Elsinore are currently running 9% ahead of last year (1,002 / 1,098) despite nearly two months of sub-par volume back in March and April. Since the market opened back up, sales have run well ahead of last year starting in June. Normally we anticipate a slowing of the market in the 3rd quarter as students are back in school and house buying activity calms for the holidays. This year students are not back in school, more workers are enjoying their ability to cut the commute and work remotely, so the drive is on for bigger and better homes in nicer, less congested places. Lake Elsinore is one of those places.

Median price is another bright spot in our market. Median price of Lake Elsinore homes is up 8% year-to-date ($377,057 / $408,595) after rather sluggish performance in 2018 – 2019. As with the rest of the region, Lake Elsinore’s housing price recovery is stretching into its 11th year with no end in sight. Even the most cautionary prognosticators are calling for a 2% - 3% increase in 2021 while the more optimistic are pushing for 6% - 7% increases to the median. This is supported by increasing demand for higher end homes. Temecula and Murrieta have each notched record months for sales of homes above $1,000,000 and Lake Elsinore has a few into that category as well the past few months.

Of course the other factor driving price appreciation is the current bidding wars going on for limited supply. As I’ve pointed out in the past, a market in balance, neither a buyer’s nor sellers’ market with an adequate supply of homes for sale is considered to be 6 – 7 months. Lake Elsinore inventory of available homes currently stands at a paltry 3 weeks! That’s right, inventory is at its lowest level since 2013 with homes staying on the market less than a week. Sales have been higher than inventory for the past 6 months as we sell not just existing inventory, but absorb 1.2 homes for every new one coming to market. Hopefully the new year will see some inurement on that score.

Strong demand and escalating prices are certainly good news for those wishing to sell their homes at this time, but frustrating for hopeful buyers who find themselves being outbid consistently and their window of opportunity and affordability receding.

There may still be some hiccups in the recovery and we have yet to see the results of COVID play out on a broad canvas. There are concerns about a possible increase in foreclosure activity as eviction moratoriums and mortgage forbearance draws to an end next year. But with most homeowners enjoying substantial equity in their homes right now, the trend will be to sell at a profit rather than lose it to the bank.

So right now, a little house in Lake Elsinore appears to be a pretty good place to be. And apparently a lot of folks agree.

10 Ways to Support Lake Elsinore Businesses During COVID-19

Please look for our Facebook and Chamber Posts to keep you up to date on changes conditions for our community and our businesses. www.lakeelsinorechamber.com

Our Directory has a list of Chamber Members for your consideration and support!

The outbreak of COVID-19 has taken a toll on many people, families, and organizations around our town. This has resulted in difficult times for many of our local businesses, which are incredibly vital and unique to our individual communities. Many businesses have been forced to temporarily close, while many others have had to scale back or change their operations completely. While it's easy to feel powerless in a time like this, there are still a few things we can do to support our local businesses.

1 Shop Virtually - Many businesses have an option to purchase their goods or services through their website, Facebook, via a phone call or through email. Online purchases are a great way to support local without leaving the comforts and safety of home!

2 Order Takeout or Delivery - Most restaurants have found a way to continue serving during this difficult time, and many have curbside pickup or even delivery options that they couldn't offer before. Now's the perfect time to order from your favorite restaurant, or to try somewhere new! This may be the difference between hanging on for survival or closing their doors permanently!

3 Purchase Gift Cards – For those businesses who are unable to remain open, purchase a gift card now to use later. This will help bridge the cash-flow gap for those businesses. Gift Cards allow for a future visit: date night, shopping spree, or lunch with friends!

4 Order Ahead – Make your transactions easier and less stressful by placing your order prior to arriving. This will shorten your exposure time and lessen the risk for everyone involved. It also helps the business manage the inflow of orders!

5 Buy Local – Many of the items you might typically buy in the big city or at the big box stores are available at your local shops as well. Buy local and support small business owners, the people who live in your neighborhood and know your name. They really appreciate it.

Stay Home – If you are feeling at all ill. A cough, sore throat, fever or runny nose could be signs that you should stay home. You'll be helping out businesses by ensuring their employees stay healthy.

Avoid Paying with Cash – This is another simple way to limit the risk of exposure to employees. Credit, Debit, and especially contactless cards and options like Apple Pay or Google Pay are great ways to eliminate touching key pads or handling cash. Plus, these transactions are usually faster, getting you in and out of the shop quickly!

Write Good Reviews – Try to write 3 positive reviews of your favorite local businesses each Wednesday. Facebook, Google, and Yelp are all great sources to write reviews. Share your experience with your neighbors!

Utilize Social Media – Follow, Like, Share, Comment and spread the news of your local businesses to all of your friends and followers! Did you get an incredible lunch delivered right to your door, or fantastic customer service from your local grocer? Give them a shout-out! Take a picture of the establishment when you arrive and share it!

Please Be Patient & Understanding – We are in unprecedented times and some businesses have either been forced to temporarily close or have made the difficult decision to do so for safety reasons. Be understanding. Know that each business is different and they are doing what's best for them, and try to support them in any way possible. Reach out to the business owners or employees to ask how they are doing, or to simply let them know you support their decisions. It means a lot!

These simple changes can go a long way in helping businesses improve cash flow, keep employees on payroll, or just to feel connected and boost morale. Our community is very strong and supportive of one another. Let's have a FANTASTIC 2021 as we Navigate our way through the Pandemic and PROPEL our way to future prosperity!

Struggling with Excess Weight?

You Have Choices.

The Bariatric Center at Inland Valley Medical Center provides comprehensive care, from weight-loss surgery seminars to learn your options, to preoperative education to prepare you for every step, through postoperative support groups to share challenges and successes.

Our Services

Weight-loss (bariatric) procedures are designed to reduce the size of the stomach and restrict the amount of food you can eat. The Bariatric Center at Inland Valley Medical Center offers the following laparoscopic procedures:

- Gastric Sleeve
- Gastric Bypass
- Adjustable Gastric Band Revision

What's Your BMI?

Visit our website to calculate your Body Mass Index (BMI).

A BMI higher than 35 with comorbidity (High Blood Pressure, Diabetes, Sleep Apnea) or BMI higher than 40 qualifies a person for bariatric surgery.

To learn more about the Bariatric Center, visit inlandvalleymedcenter.com

Individual results may vary. There are risks associated with any surgical procedure. Talk with your doctor about these risks to find out if bariatric surgery is right for you.

Physicians are independent practitioners who are not employees or agents of Southwest Healthcare System. The System shall not be liable for actions or treatments provided by physicians. IS COVID TAKING A TOLL ON YOUR MENTAL HEALTH?

If you're feeling depressed, anxious or stressed due to the pandemic, here's what you can do.

It's not surprising that mental health issues are increasing across the U.S. and around the world due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Seemingly overnight, our lives changed in ways no one could have imagined. Health concerns, job losses and a disruption of everyday life have been taking their toll on just about everyone to some extent. Fear of the unknown is making many of us feel unsettled.

Although avoiding the coronavirus may be your top health priority right now, managing your mental health is just as essential for your well-being. If you don't "feel like yourself" these days or can't seem to get out of a funk, there are things you can do on your own to start feeling better – and help is available when you need it.

Know That You're Not Alone

After the novel coronavirus reared its ugly head, lockdowns and social distancing meant we could no longer spend time with friends or family members, celebrate important occasions together or even go to school and work. As if these changes weren't stressful enough, we have also had to worry about our health and the health of family members. Concerns about job security, unemployment and finances have only worsened stress and anxiety, particularly among people who already struggle with mental health issues.

As weeks have stretched into months, worry and stress have only increased. Even as restrictions have been easing, Americans are feeling the effects of a world turned upside down. According to the U.S. National Pandemic Emotional Impact Report released on June 29, 2020, 55% of people surveyed reported feeling more stressed than in January. Additionally, 53% said they were worried about finances, 66% were concerned about the health and safety of friends and family members and 51% felt more anxious or ill at ease.

What You Can Do to Improve Your Mental Health

Stress and anxiety don't just take a toll on your mental health. They also affect your physical health, increasing your risk of developing high blood pressure, heart disease, diabetes and other health conditions and diseases. Chronic stress may also affect your immune system's ability to fight viruses like the coronavirus.

Here are some ways to improve your mental health:

- Counseling. Whether in-person or virtual, talking with a mental health professional can help you manage stress, anxiety, fear, sadness, depression and other mental health conditions. Your primary care physician can provide a recommendation if you don't already have a mental health counselor. If you're feeling overwhelmed, the National Alliance on Mental Illness (NAMI) provides a free helpline at 1-800-950-NAMI (6264). NAMI peer counselors offer support and can suggest support groups and other resources.

- Social connection. Lack of socialization may contribute to stress, loneliness, sadness and depression. You may not be able to spend the evening at a concert with friends or enjoy a meal with your grandparents, but that doesn't mean your relationships have to suffer. Skype, Zoom and other videoconferencing software – or your phone – make it easy to stay connected to the people important to you. As long as you follow social distancing guidelines for your area, you can also enjoy an outdoor meal or small get-together with friends and relatives.

- Self-care. Taking care of your physical health is particularly important for your mental health. Eating a healthy diet, getting enough sleep and exercising several times a week can help you battle stress and anxiety naturally. In fact, physical activity decreases the production of stress hormones and triggers the release of endorphins, brain chemicals that improve your mood. Avoid alcohol, smoking, caffeine and drugs, which may only make your condition worse.

- Distraction. Improving your mental health is also affected by what you can do to relax, have fun and forget about the craziness going on in the world around you. Create a "bag of tricks" that help keep you happy and at ease. Watch your favorite movie, write your thoughts in a journal, learn a new skill, indulge in a hobby, meditate or just put on some music, close your eyes and tune out the world for a little while. The break you take from the daily stressors in your life will do you good.

- Mental health treatment. If you already have an existing mental health condition, or notice signs of a new condition, it's important to get the treatment you need. Even if you have had to switch to telemedicine, it's important to keep up with regularly scheduled appointments. If you have been prescribed medication for your condition or other treatment, keep up with it as recommended. And if you notice any new or worsening symptoms, notify your doctor.

If you are struggling with changes to your life caused by the pandemic, know that you are not alone. Do what you can to improve how you feel mentally but also know that help is available when you need it. Prioritize your mental health just as you would your physical health to stay healthier – and happier – overall. This special message is brought to you by Southwest Healthcare System – Inland Valley Medical Center in Wildomar and Rancho Springs Medical Center in Murrieta.
