Mayor, City of Lake Elsinore

A MESSAGE FROM OUR MAYOR
LET'S TALK LAKE ELSINORE

After a very long COVID-19 Winter, we can finally see the light at the end of the tunnel as the vaccine roll-out accelerates and our infection rates plummet. As Spring emerges, the green shoots we see in our community this year are in the form of new business openings: Miguel Jr's, Walmart Supercenter and applications for Raising Canes, Chipotle and Auto Zone. Our Main Street is bursting with excitement as the Downtown restaurants pushed their tables outside as part of Dine Out LE and we welcomed a new friendly competitor: Michi's Tacos!

The vibe is only going to get stronger as the weather warms and the State's Public Health orders relax. Our business owners and their dedicated staff members are all heroes as they have persevered through this once in a generation event. And as we turn the corner the Development Community is pushing forward in Lake Elsinore supported by our team at City Hall who found new ways to serve customers during this pandemic. We are ready for the next cycle as home values continue to rise in Lake Elsinore with today's numbers now exceeding the lofty figures last seen in 2006.

As we begin to fully open up our economy many of our residents have discovered...or re-discovered the natural beauty we enjoy here. Whether they traveled along our Levee Walk, Riverwalk or one of our many fitness trails, the scenic serenity of our valley remains on full display. The big winners from the COVID-19 crisis have clearly been our Canine companions. As boredom set in and our choices were limited, our dogs joined us on walks, rides, beach tours and park visits because Lake Elsinore's recreation spots never closed! We choose this place because we can go outside and safely enjoy the unique features in this valley we share.

As we lean forward toward normalcy, it's time to look ahead to some significant milestones. Free Lake Access Passes will be offered on April 10th! The Lake Elsinore Motorsports Park --- under new management -- offers a family friendly environment and new track configurations for all skill levels. Skydive Elsinore, a mainstay for more than half a century continues to offer instruction and parachute jumping opportunities daily. And the Lake Elsinore Storm will begin their 2021 campaign at home on May 11th! Plus, get ready for the 4th of July when we will welcome back our night-time Boat Parade and fireworks extravaganza! But please don't forget Launch Pointe, our world-class RV camping destination is sold-out almost every weekend. And even if you can't find a campsite.... The Bobber Restaurant is open to all. You can enjoy great food, beverages and scenery and even walk down to the beach and fish. With all these choices, it's easy to see why we love this place.

LEGISLATIVE UPDATE

SWCLC Southwest California Legislative Council

Our legislators have once again outdone themselves by introducing more than 2,500 new bills for the first year of this two year session. This includes some 1,585 Assembly Bills and 825 Senate Bills plus a sprinkling of Joint Resolutions, Constitutional Amendments, House Resolutions and the like. 2,500+ ways that the legislature feels your life is somehow lacking direction, meaning, or control, as Jerry Brown used to say. Fortunately our legislators know what is in our best interest better than we do and if you don't believe them, simply visit <https://leginfo.legislature.ca.gov/> to peruse the multitude of ways your life may be lacking. The Southwest California Legislative Council is working hard in conjunction with your Chamber of Commerce to shield your business from the worst of these excesses.

2021 volume exceeds 2020 volume by over 300 bills. If there was one positive from COVID-19, it forced the legislature to drastically pare back on their activity last session sending fewer than 400 bills to the Governor at end-of-session, less than half their normal dump. This year as well, the mandate in Sacramento is to only submit bills that have some nexus to CV-19. Our legislators, ever compliant, are following this mandate by adding COVID to every bill. Want to implement a tax on your rental property... to fund CV-19 rental relief (AB 1199); mandate that retail stores stock girls and boys clothes and toys together...because COVID (AB 1048); abolish Immigration and Customs Enforcement at the border...threat of CV-19 (AJR 1); ban police use of tear gas and rubber bullets...COVID (AB 48); allow tenants to live rent-free for another year... because of COVID (AB 15). You have to admire their creativity.

That's not to say there's not some good bills trying to get through the bedlam as well, many authored by our own local legislators. Assembly member Kelly Seyarto would simplify and add schedule flexibility to working-from-home (AB 1028); in light of the $20 billion debacle at the EDD, Seyarto would also like to see the state tighten up on the release of personal information – like Social Security numbers (AB 12); Senator Melissa Melendez would limit the powers of ABC to arbitrarily revoke a liquor license during the pandemic (SB 102); and Senator Rosalicie Ochoa-Bogh would make it easier to work at home with electronic documents and signatures (SB657), requiring DPH to provide 72 hour notice of pending mandates to our business community (SB 336), and give small business time to comply with ever changing regulations without getting hit with a $5,000 fine (SB 772). There are some other good bills out there as well that will provide some much needed relief to our business community, especially our small businesses. The legislature already passed SB 87 (Caballero), a bill that will allocate more than $2 billion for direct distribution to small businesses in the state. There is a bill allowing distillers to ship merchandise to their customers much like wine clubs do today (SB 220); a bill allowing restaurants to continue to serve alcohol outside in their exterior facility after the emergency expires (SB 314); one prohibiting a school district from blocking a transfer of a student from their non-classroom instruction model to a school that actually teaches in person (AB 76); and a couple bills that would provide tax breaks for businesses to purchase cleaning and sanitizing supplies or other government mandated compliance (AB 62, AB 248).

So overall it's a mixed bag up there. COVID relief, increased taxes and more regulations dominate the agenda with a fairly broad segment dedicated to housing as well. As with many past bills, many of the current housing bills want to build affordable housing on the backs of existing homeowners and make more affordable housing by making housing less affordable. They never quite figure it out. Similarly by increasing taxes and regulations on our businesses, they merely drive more jobs and residents out of state. Of course with a Democratic mega-majority in play, many of the more business friendly, less intrusive bills will never make it out of committee while many of the more onerous will pass unimpeded. That's what we voted for, it must be what we want, eh?

As always, we invite you to attend Southwest California Legislative Council meetings, currently held via Zoom, the 3rd Monday of every month. Contact your local Chamber of Commerce for more information. SWCLC – your voice for business in Southwest California.

THE LAKE ELSINORE HOUSING JOURNAL

GENE WUNDERLICH FOR THE SOUTHWEST RIVERSIDE COUNTY ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS®

The housing market for Southwest California is off to a fast start in 2021. The region finished off 2020 with a smoking 2nd half which produced the highest volume of single family sales since 2010. Nobody knew exactly what to expect after the housing market was 'locked-down' in March but by mid-May housing was declared an 'essential service' and by mid-June we were in a race to year-end.

Why did they decide housing was an essential service? Because it is. In the midst of the lock down, there were still people who had sold a home elsewhere in the state or across the country and needed a place to live. Similarly there were local people caught in a job transfer or simply wanted to move and needed to be able to find a house on the other end. After the Fed's declared real estate to be essential, the state had little choice but to follow along – albeit with rules governing the practice including no open houses, sanitation protocols, distancing requirements and the like. You'd expect nothing less from California.

What happened was surprising and unprecedented. Buyers flocked to the area buying up homes with a vengeance. 'Affordable' homes went first but by July we also saw an influx of buyers for homes above a million$. Buyers from coastal areas tired of living in close proximity to others, needing more room for work-from-home offices, and classrooms for the kids, scooped up larger homes by the hundreds.

Lake Elsinore saw an 11% increase in single family sales from 2019 to 2020 (1,093 / 1,226) registering the highest sales volume since 2013. Arguably more homes could have been sold in the City had there been more inventory of available homes. By December, inventory had dwindled to a meager 49 homes for sale, down 73% from 183 the prior year. Current inventory stands at a 0.6 month supply, or just over 2 WEEKS! Remember than an inventory of 6-7 months is considered to be a market in balance – neither a buyer nor a seller market. We are currently in a very strong seller market with homes flying off the market in an average of 6 days.

Of course we know what happens when strong demand meets limited supply – prices go up – in some cases pretty quickly. Across the region median prices appreciated some 9% year-over-year. Lake Elsinore prices appreciated at a little slower pace last year but have already jumped 18% over the same period last year ($385,023 / $467,500). There is hope that once a majority of the population is vaccinated, more sellers will feel comfortable putting their homes up for sale and that new home construction, paused by the pandemic, will once again bring much needed inventory to the market. This will slow appreciation somewhat and improve affordability for the area, which has taken a hit this year.

Meanwhile interest rates continue at near-record lows and stories abound of homes generating 10, 15, 40 offers over a weekend with homes invariably selling over asking price. Not just in our area but across the country! At some point the market will slow, a correction is inevitable, but when and how much is the question. For now there is no indication it will come anytime soon and buyers and sellers are really enjoying being able to live in the 'Action Sports Capitol of the World', and call Lake Elsinore home.

WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW BEFORE YOU TRAVEL AGAIN

If you're itching to see family or go on vacation, follow these tips to keep everyone safer.

Traveling has become much more complicated in the COVID-19 era. Whether you plan to take a trip to see your family nearby or vacation in a distant location, the risk of getting or spreading the coronavirus increases when you are around others who are not part of your household.

Knowing you or loved ones have been vaccinated against COVID-19 may have you finalizing your travel plans – or you may have decided that enough is enough and you just need a change of scenery and are deciding to travel against recommendations from health experts. Either way, keep these things in mind before you hit the road or fly the friendly skies so everyone stays safer.

Travel Risks

It's safer to put off travel if you have one or more risk factors that increase the likelihood of serious complications or death from the coronavirus and haven't yet been vaccinated. Risk factors include:

- Age. People aged 65 or older are more at risk of getting sicker.
- Weight. Overweight and obese people are at increased risk of COVID-19 complications.
- Underlying conditions. It may be harder for your body to fight the virus if you have heart disease, diabetes, high blood pressure, chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, kidney disease, an immune system condition, are pregnant or have another underlying health issue.

It's also important to investigate the status of virus spread and hospital capacity at your destination. Spread may be low where you live but not where you're headed. If hospitals are at or near full capacity, it may be difficult to get the care you need if you get COVID-19, or if you get sick or injured while away.

Vaccination Status

Getting the COVID-19 vaccine will greatly reduce your chance of becoming sick if you're exposed to the virus. Keep in mind that you'll only develop partial immunity after the first dose of a two-dose vaccine, such as the ones from Moderna or Pfizer-BioNTech. A few weeks after getting both doses, the vaccines are reported to be up to 95% effective.

Infectious disease experts suggest that at least 60-70% of the population needs to be immune to COVID-19 before we achieve herd immunity. But it will probably be the middle to late part of 2021 before there's enough vaccine available in the U.S. to reach herd immunity.

How to Protect Yourself and Others When You Travel

If you decide to travel, these tips will make your trip a little safer for everyone:

- Wear a mask and practice social distancing. You'll likely be protected if you've received the vaccine, but that doesn't mean others around you will be. Researchers aren't sure yet if vaccinated people will be able to spread COVID-19 to others if they're exposed to the virus but don't develop symptoms. So continue to wear a mask and practice social distancing until the majority of people in the U.S. are vaccinated.
- Wash your hands. Washing your hands frequently (or using hand sanitizer) is a simple way to reduce your risk of catching the coronavirus, as well as other illnesses.
- Avoid large gatherings. The more people at an event, the more likely the virus will spread. So whether you're traveling to see family or to sightsee, try to limit the number of people you will be around at any event or location.
- Stay outdoors as much as possible. Wind currents scatter coronavirus droplets, reducing your exposure to the virus. This makes it safer for you to visit with people, dine or engage in other activities if you stay outdoors rather than gathering inside.
- Stick to personal transportation. Driving your own car, rather than traveling by train, bus or airplane, may help you decrease your exposure to COVID-19. The more you can control your surroundings, the better.
- Get tested. Take a coronavirus test 3-5 days before your trip. Don't travel if you test positive or feel sick.
- Quarantine when you return. Follow local quarantine recommendations when you return home. If you were exposed to the virus during your trip, you may not develop symptoms for several days or longer. This travel safe tip is brought to you by the folks at Southwest Healthcare System – Inland Valley Medical Center in Wildomar and Rancho Springs Medical Center in Murrieta.
